

You have just found a magic wand. What do you do with it?

A couple of years ago I found a wooden box while cleaning my attic. I opened it and saw a golden stick with the star on the top. I knew it was a magic wand and immediately made a wish to get a new pair of sneakers. Nothing happened. I made another wish, to get an A on my math test. Later at school I saw it was C. I felt disappointed. Suddenly I heard someone say: "The real magic is in you and there are no boundaries to that magic. You can do whatever you want, you are the one who can make your wishes come true."

That's what I do now. I make my wishes come true.
