The Legends from my Country

My country has a lot of very strange legends and my favourite is one about the 'Devil's Town'. The legend says that some people drank water from the Devil's river near the 'Devil's Town' and that it made them go mad and they wanted to get brother and sister married. A fairy that lived in the forest tried to stop them but they wouldn't listen. The fairy got angry and asked God to turn all the people at the wedding into stones. And so God did.

After that nobody ever drank water from the Devil's river and people today believe it's haunted!
