

YALS 2011 literary competition winners

A2

The Legends from my Country

From mountain Kopaonik to Jaram there is one place that people call Marko's rock. The legend says that Marko was lifting a rock with heroes. One hero was lifting a big rock and dropped it very fast. Marko was lifting a bigger rock and then he put it on the first one. And today the two rocks still stand on each other.

Near Mostar, in the village of Gnojnica there is another big rock called 'Markovac'. The story says that Marko threw it there in time of competition with his friends .

In the village of Begovici, in Slavonija there is another very big rock. People say that there Marko had a fight with Musa Kesedzija and then he threw that big rock at him from large distance.

People say that those prints and colours come from Marko's fingers and heels.

by Staša Korceba, Blue Moon, Kula