

YALS 2011 literary competition winners

B1

Technology in everyday life

Nowadays it is hard to imagine life without modern technology. At first technology was about helping the human kind cope with difficulties in work, production and industry, but today it seems like there are not many machines that can be improved.

This has led to the fact that people today tend to introduce technology into their private life. For example they do their best to have the latest audio or video gadgets like computers, mobile phones, tv sets, mp3s or cd players. The temptation brought to all of us by the possibility to use all sorts of technological help leads to a gradual disappearance of the limit between the private and professional life. Therefore, instead of enjoying the beauty of the nature we spend most of our spare time indoors.

Although modern life cannot be imagined without technology it is up to us to make decisions about its use.

by Magdalena Josipović, Lingva, Valjevo