Traditions from my region

In Serbia we have many traditions.

When someone come to visit you, you give him some bread and salt before anything else. It is also a tradition to shoot from a gun on weddings. The tradition of taking food to cemetery is also very special. Also, when a person dies Serbian women wear black scarves. On the other hand, when a baby is born, it is a tradition to tear up a T-shirt of a baby's father. It is also a tradition for a baby to wear a threat on its arm and it is forbidden for a baby to be outside when the night falls.

Some people love these customs. I consider them a part of Serbian cultural heritage.
