The fortune-teller looked at the crystal ball and said that the Headless Horsemen's Headtaker will appear once again.

Jerry was afraid of the Fortune-teller's predictions but he thought it was just banter. Jerry arrogantly turned around and left her house. As he heard her yelling: "It's you he is seeking for!" Jerry went to his house and thought it was a great idea to not wear a costume this Halloween so the HHH could find him and take his head. Halloween came there were lots and lots of trick or treaters and they all had a costume. Suddenly the rain started and for no apparent reason the creepy music started and so came the HHH he had Jack'o'lantern on his head. Jerry dodged all of his mighty sword blows. Jerry was running the whole night to try and survive. The greatest wiyard of them all Merasmus. Merasmus ended Halloween and by doing that ended HHH.

Jerry then collapsed and started snoring! The End.

P.S. HHH was only chasing Jerry because he wasn't in a costume.
