

YALS 2012 literary competition winners

A1

My Ideal School

Like every kid i always wanted the school different than normal schools.

When I was little i didn't know exactly how i wanted to be. but now I do. My ideal school is called "The Dark Forest" and it is a school for adventures. The school is very big and it has eight floors. On the first floor teachers teach kids how to survive in the wild. On the second floor they teach some four thousand year old skills, but on the third floor professors teach us how to fight with sword. The fourth floor is for teaching us how to defend ourselves with shields and tell us how to be good people. The fifth floor is for practicing skills with bows and arrows. The sixth floor is Battle Arena where kids fight against each other every Friday with wooden swords so teachers can see what we learned that week and give us a mark. The seventh floor is a factory where they make swords, shields and bows and arrows. The best part of our school is the eight floor. That is the floor for adventures. It has nine rooms. Every room is the different place and time. When you enter the second room on the left which is my favorite you can be a knight in the old England and feel the adventures that they had then.

So, what do you thin about my ideal school? Can you picture it with me and help me build it in the future?

Pavle Bosiljčić, Oxford School