The lost suitcase

"Long time ago there was a teenage girl named Sarah. She was beautiful.

Wherever she was going she would bring all her dresses in a suitcase.

One day, when she went in the forest she realised that her suitcase was gone. She started searching for it, getting deeper in the scary forest.

Eventually, Sarah was found brutally killed. Next to her body, there was a suitcase. Police brought it to the police station. After some time it disappeared. People said that Sarah's ghost is still searching for her lost suitcase."

When my grandmother finished telling that spooky story, she sent me for some sugar in her old closet. There, right next to the sugar, was an old suitcase. I opened it immediately. It was full of dresses. Then, I remembered that my grandmother's aunt was named Sarah.
