

It was one of those really, really long days. I was with my friends outside the whole day. I even forgot to eat. So I got back home to make some sandwiches but when I got to the front door I saw my Mom's note which said: " I have to do some important work and I won't be back until tomorrow"

I was kind of surprised since she never had such long jobs.I went into the house and since I was really tired, went to take a bath and go to sleep. But, before I even got to the bath to turn on the water, the electricity went out.Luckely I had my phone with me so I turned on the flashlight and went down the stairs and then I heard a knock on the door.
