

Do you think students should wear school uniforms?

School uniforms. This is a very complicated topic, and is looked differently all around the world. In Japan, and other East Asian countries, all kids have to wear them. While in the west, most (but not all) schools don't have them.

Personally, I think they are not a good idea. Firstly, they cost a lot of money, which schools could spend differently. Secondly, they only work in a certain weather. Sure, it can be comfortable during most of the year, but a same outfit can't be nice throughout all of the seasons. And lastly, they can get lost, ripped, dirty, or shrunk. Especially in my country, where I'm sure most of them will get ruined or lost in a week.

In conclusion, school uniforms can be good if done correctly, but can only work in richer, more civilized countries, like Japan.

Marko Pavlović
Britannica, Niš