

Do you agree that students should wear school uniforms?

Schools have rules, and some of them include wearing school uniforms. But, often, students, especially girls, prefer wearing clothes they pick out for themselves.

There are three good reasons for encouraging young people to wear uniforms. Firstly, when students wear them, they actually show that they belong there and that they are part of one community. Secondly, this can save some money, because this way young people do not have to buy new clothes very often. And finally, wearing uniforms makes possible for everyone to be equal, it hides social differences and financial background.

On the other hand, there are a number of reasons why uniforms should not be used in school. Firstly, everyone looks the same. As I mentioned before, there is a positive side of that, but the negative side is that we do not get to see what kind of clothes some person likes, because every student is similar to others. Furthermore, that could be bigger investment, because students have to buy at least two uniforms.

From my point of view, students should not wear school uniforms because each one of them has to show through clothes his own differences and something that makes him special.

Sara Matović, Penguin English