

I walked into the hot sunshine

I happened. I have finished primary school. It was very stressful, hard, challenging experience, but I managed to defeat exhaustion, tiredness, cruelty from teachers who don't know the feeling of being the kid.

As I walked through the door with a feeling that I accomplished life, everything felt easy. Outside of the school was hot sunshine and everything was melting: my friend's icecream, chocolate for lunch, and in the air I could feel that perfect holiday smell. After finishing school I knew where would be my next destination, basketball court. I didn't have to tell my friends anything, they knew where are we all going.

The best feeling a pupil can experience after finishing the school year is to walk into the hot sunshine.
