

My future studies

Most kids, when asked: "What do you want to be when you grow up?", usually have the same answers: "I want to be a doctor! Or, perhaps an actor!" I can't blame them, because when I was little, I wanted to be a vet!

Eventually, I decided not to become a vet, but I still didn't give up on medicine. I now want to pursue a career in psychology which seems very interesting to me, because you never know how people's minds work. This might sound weird, but I started taking interest in psychology when I heard about people like Leonardo da Vinci or even Adolf Hitler himself. They all had something unusual about them, which made me wonder why they did all those things. Most people say that Hitler was crazy, and that is partly true, although I believe there is a more serious problem than just plain craziness.

I think psychology is one of the best studies you can take, because it expands your way of thinking, and lets you discover things about the nature of a human, or a being that you didn't even know existed.

B2

Nikolić Jana

Penguin English, Jagodina